ABOUT THE SESSION:

On February 20th, 2024, IEEE CIS organized the "A Scholar's Canvas - Decoding the Art of Research Paper Writing" session at Venue 212 in C V RAMAN BLOCK. The event, scheduled from 09:25 am to 10:30 am, attracted approximately 54 students. The session was led by Dr. Manjunath Kounte, Head of Department for ECM.

The session ended with the vote of thanks and the session was a successful one.

The session was a successful one.

NO OF STUDENTS: 54

Explanation of the Research Paper Publishing Process:

Manjunath sir provided a detailed walkthrough of the entire process involved in publishing a research paper, from conceptualization to the final publication.

Guidance on Writing a Research Paper:

He demonstrated how to write a research paper, breaking down the essential components and emphasizing key points to ensure a successful publication.

Tips for One-Go Publication:

Manjunath sir shared valuable insights and tips on how to increase the chances of getting a research paper accepted in a single submission, possibly covering aspects like proper formatting, adhering to journal guidelines, and crafting compelling arguments.

Chapter-wise Explanation:

Each chapter required for a research paper was explained in detail, offering a structured approach for the students to follow in their own writing processes.

Q&A Session:

The session concluded with a question and answer segment, providing students with an opportunity to seek clarification on specific aspects of writing and publishing research papers.

Outcome:

The students gained a thorough understanding of the research paper publishing process, including practical tips and strategies for improving the chances of successful publication. The session likely empowered them with the knowledge and confidence needed to undertake their own research endeavors.

Overall, Manjunath sir's session appears to have been a valuable resource for students interested in the academic and research aspects of their field, equipping them with the necessary skills to navigate the intricacies of writing and publishing research papers.
